

Molnar Satire Well Handled

HUNGARIAN dramatist Ferenc Molnar ("The Guardsman," "Liliom") offers some sparkling satire in "The Play's The Thing."

P. G. Wodehouse's translation of the piece was given good treatment by Brisbane Repertory Theatre Society in the Albert Hall last night.

The piquancy of dialogue and situation evoked by Harold Cox, Alex Foster, Tony Dick, Cecil Knopke, Colla McCracken, Peter Buchanan, and Bill Williams, was relished by the large audience.

The piece will be repeated to-night and to-morrow night.—
